Keynote Speaker Spotlight

GUY FELICELLA

Guy Felicella grew up in a middle class home in Richmond but fell into addiction at a young age. Guy spent 30 years in the repeated cycle of gangs, addiction, treatment and jail. He spent nearly 20 years residing in the two block radius in the Downtown Eastside and using many resources, including harm reduction, to keep himself alive.

Today, Guy has escaped the grips of the turmoil that kept him suffering and resides in Surrey with his wife and two young children with multiple years of recovery and sobriety under his belt.

Guy is passionate about advocating for the vulnerable people who still suffer in addiction and educating communities on harm reduction through public speaking to eliminate the stigma that exists around it. Guy has started a career with Vancouver Coastal Health in addition to attending various school districts to educate students on addiction. Guy spent nearly his entire life suffering from the disease of addiction and now he is using his experience to change the hearts and minds of people stating, “you can’t save a dead addict.”

PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS & BREAKOUT SESSIONS

Delegates can choose to attend one of the optional pre-conference workshops on Wednesday, March 18. During the two-day conference, there will be a variety of informative plenary sessions, and a choice of breakout sessions for delegates to attend. In addition to the exemplary Keynote speakers and breakout presenters, we also offer a hosted lunch followed by a session to share our experiences and take-aways with each other.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Mental health professionals, educators, front-line workers, administrators, criminal justice personnel, social workers, law enforcement officers, corrections staff, psychologists, counsellors, therapists, youth workers, anyone interested in or working within the mental health field, working with youth or working with Indigenous communities. This is an open forum with something for everyone.
